Soviet leader rejects belief in nuclear attack 'winner' ³

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev on Tuesday rejected President Reagan's claim that the Soviets believe they can win a nuclear war and demanded the U.S. leader to make a public statement declaring nuclear attack a "criminal" idea.

Reacting to Reagan's statement that Soviet leaders consider victory in a nuclear warfare possible, Brezhnev said: "Only he who has decided to commit suicide can start a nuclear war in the hope of emerging a victor from it."

The Soviet president's comments were made in an interview with the Communist Party daily Pravda and distributed by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Brezhnev was reacting to remarks Reagan made to visiting newspaper editors in Washington on Friday. The White House later released a transcript of the meeting.

In the meeting, Reagan responded to a question of whether a nuclear exchange could be limited or would simply escalate by saying: "I don't honestly know...There never has been a weapon that someone hasn't come up with a defense. But it could...and the only defense would be, well, you shoot yours and we'll shoot ours. And if you still had that kind of a stalemate, I could see where you could have the exchange of tactical weapons against troops in the field without it bringing either one of the major powers to pushing the button...

"I do have to point out that everything that has been said and everything in their manuals indicates that, unlike us, the Soviet Union believes that a nuclear war is possible and they believe it is winnable..."

Brezhnev said, "No matter what method of unleashing nuclear war he chooses, he will not attain his aims. Retribution will ensure ineluctably."

"It would be good if the president of the United States, too, would make a clear and unambiguous statement rejecting the very idea of nuclear attack as a criminal one."

Group recommends add-drop procedures

by Cathy Crist

A new ad hoc committee of faculty and students recommended Tuesday at a Faculty Senate meeting, that central registration and add-drop periods which previously lasted seven and a half days be cut to two days beginning in the spring.

The committee made the suggestions that registration and add-drops be conducted on a Thursday and Friday—into the evening hours if necessary—and classes would begin on Monday.

The committee made the proposal in response to another change in the add-drop system suggested by dean of Student Academic Services Samuel Taber.

Taber said he wants the add lines to remain in the University Union Grand Ballroom while drop cards would be placed in a box outside of the Registration Office.

Under his plan, drop cards would be processed at the end of each day. A list of closed courses would be posted outside the University Union Old Ballroom and these classes would remain closed until the next day after more drops had been processed.

Because campus groups and students were opposed to Taber's new policy changes, the Council on Academic Affairs, Faculty Senate and student senators formed a joint ad hoc committee to investigate the situation.

Faculty Senator Dan Hockman said the ad hoc committee will present its eight-point recommendation to the CAA and both the student and faculty senates for their responses before further action is taken.

The recommendation calls for central registration to start on Thursday and to be completed prior to the start of classes on Monday.

During this two-day period, time would be provided for students to make changes in their schedules and cards would be used—one per seat in the class for adds.

Student Senator Ann Hoy, member of the ad hoc committee, said this is done in many schools and if there are no more cards at the department table for a class, there are no more openings.

Hockman said the recommendation states that students who preregister be allowed to list alternate courses for specific initial course requests.

Also, students who have preregistered and paid their fees would be given priority in the registration schedule.

Hockman said instead of department tables for advisement, the ad hoc committee recommended that each department have someone in the department office to advise students during registration.

The recommendation also says all graduate registration would be done by mail, at regular registration, or at the first meeting of night classes.

Faculty Senator Jerry Rooke said the committee recommends that these improvements be implemented for the Spring Semester 1982.

He added, "These recommendations would cut the entire registration and add-drop procedures from seven and a half to two days."

Faculty Senate chairman Lavern Hamand said the senate will act on the proposal next week.

ISSC asks General Assembly for extra $19 million

by Maureen Foertsch

An additional $19 million was requested Monday by the Illinois State Scholarship Commission for this year's budget, although the commission ideally needs a $150 million budget, an ISSC official said Tuesday.

In addition to this year's requested increase, a $40 million increase over this year's budget will be needed for next year, FY83, just to maintain current demands with no increase in eligible applicants or award amounts, the official added.

The commission requested the $19 million to extend its current budget of $91 million appropriated by the Illinois General Assembly this year, Tom Mortenson, ISSC director of research and planning analysis, said.

The commission held its regular meeting Monday at Loyola University in Chicago.

Mortenson said the extra $40 million would be needed to cover an increase in tuition costs and the number of students applying for financial aid and a decrease in federal aid.

He added the commission would need more than $150 million this fiscal year to maintain a desired level of aid, but only requested $19 million.

Mortenson said even if the ISSC receives the requested $40 million increase next year, 20,000 of the expected 165,000 students applicants will be denied awards, although they may qualify as needy.

The ISSC's lack of funds this year caused 13,000 eligible students to be bumped from the program, he said.

Of the 150,000 applicants this year, Mortenson said only 35,000 received awards.

"The problem is serious and I'm terribly concerned about the situation and the decrease in state funding," Mortenson said. "And if I were Sue McKenna or John Flynn (Eastern director and associate director of financial aids) I would be very concerned, because Eastern has been and will be hit very hard by the cuts."

Flynn said earlier this semester all public universities would be hit hardest by ISSC funding shortages and paybacks, since the ISSC made a commitment to private universities allowing them about 68 percent of total dollars allocated next year.

Flynn also said earlier Eastern's financial aids office did not have the resources to handle changes in the ISSC notification procedure on an appropriate time schedule.

The new procedure saves the ISSC the time and money of sending out new notification each time the award amount fluctuates.

Toxic disposal site to close due to Supreme Court ruling

SPRINGFIELD—The Illinois Supreme Court has slammed the final state legal door on owners of a toxic waste site who appealed a court order to clean up the landfill at a tiny southwestern Illinois town, officials said Tuesday.

Justices denied a request by Earthline Corp. that they reconsider their May 22 ruling that the firm must close its toxic waste disposal site at Wilsonville and remove contaminated materials and earth.

Illinois justices ruled last May that the evidence showed the site, which contained toxic chemicals such as PCBs, posed a clear danger to area residents. The state's highest court also upheld lower state court decisions closing the site and ordering Earthline to remove hazardous wastes stored there.

Wednesday's (AP) News shorts

A suit on behalf of residents of Wilsonville, 40 miles northeast of St. Louis, was filed in 1977 in Macoupin County Circuit Court.

The case became a national environmental cause. Estimates on removing the chemicals and earth at the Wilsonville site are in excess of $1 million.

Following the ruling, elated Wilsonville residents threw themselves a victory bash.

After a 104-day trial, Circuit Court Judge John W. Russell in 1978 ordered Earthline to close the site and remove hazardous wastes stored there, including soil that may have been contaminated.

Higher cigarette, alcohol tax possible to boost revenue

WASHINGTON—The Reagan administration is considering a boost in cigarette and alcohol excise taxes and a variety of other ways to increase federal revenues, Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said Tuesday.

Regan did not elaborate on the proposals under study. But other officials said they include such politically volatile ideas as eliminating income tax deductions for interest payments on virtually all credit except home mortgages and auto loans, and limiting exemptions for health insurance premiums.

According to Treasury sources, the administration is not seriously entertaining the idea of eliminating interest deductions for home mortgages.

Campus petition shows support of Solidarity Union

by Fran Brolley

About 1,800 signatures from the campus community have been collected on petitions voicing support of the Polish people and the Solidarity Union.

Reaction to the petition has been "very positive," senior Tom Creek, who coordinated Eastern's petition drive with junior Dan Grady, said.

Creek said all signatures collected during the nation-wide drive will be tabulated and announced at a Chicago press conference for the College Republicans before being sent to President Reagan in Washington.

Reagan will be mailed a copy of the petition before it is sent to Poland so he will have "knowledge of what the public opinion is," Creek said.

Creek said the petition is "a way of showing the Polish people that the American people stand behind them in their struggle for freedom.

The threat of a Soviet invasion into Poland and the accomplishments of the Polish people and the organized labor union—Solidarity—are the prime moving factors behind the drive, Creek said.

"There have been a few that didn't want to sign it (the petition), but overall the reaction has been very positive here," Creek said.

City rejects ordinances; no new shopping center

by Peggy McMeen

Two amending ordinances, one requesting rezoning and a second recommending a conditional use permit for a proposed shopping center, were defeated by the Charleston City Council Tuesday night at a standing-room-only meeting.

The land, located north of Route 16 and east of Route 130, was slated to be rezoned C-2 (commercial) with an R-2 (duplex) buffer zone between the proposed shopping center and Circle Drive.

Priscilla Ebdon, legal representative for Circle Drive residents, said the duplex area "would be no buffer zone at all" because duplexes next to the shopping center would be hard to rent. She added that there were no concrete plans for development of the buffer zone.

Ebdon said the residents had no objections to the development of the property, owned by Paul and Eleanor Newman. "They're just not presenting the right plan," she said.

Ebdon added that two previous proposals for the shopping center had been "unanimously defeated" by the Board of Zoning, Appeals and Planning.

She said Circle Drive residents wanted the rezoning and permit proposals defeated until the developers can present a plan more favored by the residents.

Before the vote Mayor Bob Hickman said, "If we have that many people who are that much against it, I feel we should vote it down."

Hickman said he supported the project when it was introduced because he was unaware of how much trouble it would cause, "but I do not and will not support it now."

Commissioner John Beusch said the developers could go back to the zoning board and outline the problems between the plan and Circle Drive residents. He added that he did not want to "change zoning for a plan that might not work."

In other business, the council set a special meeting for noon Tuesday to discuss Liberty Cable's request to add seven new channels at a $2 per month rate increase and $1.50 charge per additional outlet.

"Some people don't even care what's going on in Poland, but you've got to care," he said.

"You just can't turn your back on a people who want freedom and are being denied it," he said.

"The people of Poland have accomplished a lot through peaceable means and now the Soviet Union is trying to make them give up those accomplishments by pressuring them with the threat of invasion," Creek said.

"We (U.S.) wouldn't be the democracy we are today without the support from other countries we received. By the time this petition reaches Poland there should really be a lot of signatures offering good moral support," he said.

Accusation needed investigation

A hasty decision made with poor judgment and lack of communication turned a simple problem in a situation which created ill will among some black fraternities and sororities and Union Area Head Bill Clark.

Clark sent a memo to the National Panhellenic Council, which oversees the organizations, informing them that they could not use the University Union Ballroom for the sets the groups traditionally hold on weekends because the new floor in the Union was buckling.

Clark said the maintenance staff which examined the newly laid ballroom floor and discovered the buckling and bubbles implied that the dances held by the black greek organizations were one of the possible causes for the damage.

Rather than investigating the situation further before making an accusation as serious as the staff suggested, Clark sent off a memo which called for an indefinite suspension of the dances to Booker Suggs, assistant director of student activities.

The hasty decision was unnecessary and showed poor judgment on Clark's part as the head of the Union.

After receiving complaints from the black greek community, Clark further investigated the situation and discovered that the new floor was made of softer material and therefore buckled easier.

Normal use of the floor caused the buckling, Clark discovered.

The investigation should have been conducted before the memo was sent to Suggs and before bad feelings were stirred up.

A little thought and some communication would have gone a long way in this situation.

Clark should have approached Suggs before the memo was sent.

Fortunately, the problem was resolved before any dances were canceled. Clark also rectified the situation by sending a letter of apology to the organizations involved.

In the future we hope Clark thinks of the consequences before taking hasty action which could damage the relationship between student groups and the Union.

There is no excuse for making accusations without thorough investigation, especially on the part of a university official.

Meeting with 'Mensa' baffles reporter

As I walked down the desolate country road, the sky grew darker and I began to wonder if the address given to me really existed. To confirm my sense of direction, I stopped at a local laundromat and inquired about the person and place of residence.

"Sure I know where that is, just go up the road about a mile or so until it ends, you'll find it." I thanked her and set off to attend a "meeting of the minds."

It was publicized as a group of highly intelligent people who gather to socialize and relate to those of equal intelligence.

I found out somewhat differently.

When I arrived at the trailer park and approached the front door, I was greeted and introduced to the woman whom I was to interview. I was surprised to find only one person and two cats inside. I found a place to sit, emptied my backpack and put a tape in the recorder.

The organization that was to gather in the mobile home is called "Mensa" and is comprised of a group of highly intelligent people.

They discussed topics ranging from computer languages, white squirrels and the purpose of last names to the revision of a American folk song into a twisted French imitation.

Still, periods of silence and examination of the carpet left voids on my tape. The group reminded me of middle class excerpts from the 60s.

An air of hesitancy and inability to speak overcame the gathering, like a cloud of deathly smoke, preventing thoughts from being verbalized. The hum of my recorder and meow of the cats provided entertainment.

Behind the byline:

Jeanne Patterson

I continued to probe my mind in search of interesting questions to confront these intelligent people with. When I posed a question a response shot at me and the silence returned once again. Outside, the noises of people walking by, or the sound of a car crunching its wheels against the gravel sent hopeful glances through the gathering and the hostess running for the door.

As the clock ticked and time passed, I waited slowly for the meeting to end.

Walking off the platform on to the gravel, I breathed a sigh of relief. As I left, I noticed my backpack was missing so I returned to the trailer and went to retrieve it. Knocking on the door I felt a twinge of pity for the people inside.

Here they were, a fine group of very smart people with nothing to talk about, in my opinion of course. I reached for the door and took a last look at the highly intelligent. The only ones who returned my glance were the two cats who, with sad eyes, begged to come home with me.

Closing the door, I made sure everything was with me. First my recorder, then my notebook and backpack and, oh yes!—my intelligence.

Taber to talk on add-drop controversy

by Cathy Crist

Samuel Taber, dean of Student Academic Services, will address the Student Senate Wednesday and will answer questions about his recently proposed add-drop system, Senate Speaker Karen Kupsche said.

Kupsche said Taber will answer questions on his proposed change in the add-drop system—a proposal that has met with opposition from students and faculty.

His proposal would involve separating the add and drop lines.

Students would drop classes by placing drop requests in a box outside the Registration Office. All drops would be processed once at the end of each day.

Senator Ann Hoy said she will present a recommendation on the add-drop issue that came from a recently-formed ad hoc committee. The committee is made of students and members of the Faculty Senate and Council of Academic Affairs.

The recommendation, Hoy said, would combine registration and add-drops in a two-day period with extended hours and would have classes begin on Monday—when the registration process is completed—rather than Wednesday.

In other business, the senate will act on a proposed change in the academic dismissal policy that was tabled at last week's meeting.

Kupsche said the senate will also hear a report from the Auditing Committee that is currently auditing the student radio station, WELH.

Plans develop for lot by Union

by Susan Ellison

The University Traffic Committee voted Monday to send a proposal for controlled parking in lot U near the University Union, to the council of vice presidents, Student Body President Bob Glover said.

"It's (proposal) the first step in the right direction to gaining controlled parking in the Union lot," Glover said.

Traffic Committee Chairman Don Cook said the proposal calls for "developing some sort of constant parking area open to non-sticker parking."

He also said the parking area would only be available for people using the Union and students would not be permitted to park there while in class.

"We haven't worked out the details on how parking will be controlled," Cook said.

Cook said the committee has not decided whether parking meters or gates should be used to control the parking.

Glover said meters are "definitely not the route to go" because of installation costs, maintenance, the possibility of vandalism and the constant need for police patrols.

Glover said meters "aren't being considered as much as gates are." However, Cook said the committee is "leaning neither way as far as gates or meters are concerned."

If the proposal is approved, Cook said, an investigation will formally begin to develop information to determine cost factors.

Cook said he hopes to have the project finished before parking stickers

Senate group to revise plan on dismissal

by Nancy Montague

The Student Senate Academic Affairs committee will modify its academic dismissal proposal and discuss a proposal to change summer school entrance requirements at its meeting Wednesday, Committee Chairman Julie Smith said.

Smith said additional research has been conducted into the academic dismissal proposal which now makes revision necessary.

Both proposals were presented to the Student Senate last Wednesday, but academic dismissal was tabled for one week so senators could study it.

The summer school proposal would require students whose first semester at Eastern was during summer school and who want to enroll for fall or spring semesters to meet several requirements.

Those stipulations would require a student to carry a GPA of 2 from the summer term, to have been enrolled as a full-time student (eight hours), to have successfully completed English 1000 or 1001, and to have fulfilled one general education requirement, in order to insure university standards are met, said Smith.

Currently, freshmen whose first semester at Eastern is a summer term are required only to hold a high school diploma.

The committee will meet 6:15 p.m. in the University Union Bookstore Lounge.

Spikers seek better defense

by Kris Nicholson

Ironing out current problems in the Panther spikers' play will be the main goal of the squad when they meet Illinois Central College 6 p.m. Saturday in East Peoria.

Eastern coach Carol Gruber said, "We're going to try to refine our new defense. We had too many serving errors this weekend (at the EIU invitational)."

According to the Panther coach, this week's practices have been emphasizing the new defensive play and serving consistency.

Another problem the squad's skipper is trying to iron out is calling plays off of serves instead of just free balls.

"When we call a play we play it off of a free ball," Gruber said. "I want to work on calling it off the service."

Gruber feels optimistic about the upcoming match and thinks, "it'll be a good match for us—a chance to come home with a good solid win against a good team."

"We'll emphasize enjoying the match while we play. It'll be a good tone up for the weekends match," she added.

Booters to host Evansville Aces

by Jim Woodcock

Eastern's soccer team maintained its hold on the No. 5 position in the NCAA Division I soccer poll and will face its toughest competition in weeks when the University of Evansville visits Eastern for a 2 p.m. contest Wednesday at Lakeside Field.

Head coach Schellas Hyndman said he was not surprised that his squad failed to move up in this week's rankings and is more concerned about Wednesday's game against the Aces.

"We were No. 5 last week and that is a traditional spot in the poll," Hyndman explained. "It is hard to move up unless we win some key games and other teams up there lose."

Evansville comes into Wednesday's action with a 7-6-2 record, and has run into stiff competition against the Panthers recently. Eastern has been victorious over the Aces twice in the last three years, including a 3-2 overtime win last year in Evansville.

Hyndman warned that Wednesday's game against the Aces is going to be the toughest competition in recent weeks for the Panthers, who will face a squad rich with individual talent.

"Their record is not an indication that they are a poor team," Hyndman said. "They have fantastic individual players and have a lot of my respect."

The Aces' premier performers include leading scorer John Nunes and Just Jensen, whom Hyndman tabbed as "one of the best soccer players I've ever seen in college."

In addition to the skilled Evansville attack, Hyndman expressed the concern that the Aces will be psyched up in meeting the Panthers.

"If Evansville had to pick a rival, they would probably pick us," Hyndman said. "They have tried for three years in a row to get a post-season bid and have just fallen short. I think they look at this as a key game in getting a bid."

If the Aces have one problem, it is inconsistency. Although they have played a tough schedule this season, they have failed to put together a string of victories.

"Their misfortune is that they play hot and cold," Hyndman said. "They are hurting right now from losses to Wisconsin-Green Bay, Cleveland State and Akron. They either play well or they don't."

The Panthers will reactivate starting goaltender Eric Hartman and co-captain Vince DiBella to action off the injured list.

However, winger George Hough is still experiencing a swollen foot and will not be ready for Wednesday's contest.

Rankings

The NCAA Division I soccer rankings with total ballot points are as follows:

1. Indiana	329
2. Long Island	322
3. Connecticut	321
4. Clemson	290
5. Eastern	252
6. Philadelphia Textile	238
7. San Jose	236
8. Columbia	167
9. SIU E	148
10. George Mason	115

Yankees take series opener 5-3

World Series

Los Angeles vs. New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Watson, one of those Yankees' "Old Folks," hit a three-run homer in the first inning that carried New York to a 5-3 victory Tuesday night over the Los Angeles Dodgers in the first game of the 1981 World Series.

The 35-year-old Watson and some of his veteran teammates had come under fire by Yankees' owner George Steinbrenner during New York's American League East Division play-off series with Milwaukee. But Watson, who had 11 hits in the division and championship series, answered Steinbrenner's complaints again with a home run in his first World Series at-bat.

The victory went to Ron Guidry, 11-5 with a 2.76 earned run average during the season. He checked Los Angeles on four hits and six strikeouts through seven innings before retiring in favor of relievers Ron Davis and then Goose Gossage.

The Dodgers scored their last two runs in the eighth inning, but the Yankees were saved from further damage in that frame when third baseman Craig Nettles made a spectacular leaping catch of a drive by Steve Garvey.

It was the renewal of one of baseball's most intense World Series rivalries in a season that had shattered tradition. The Dodgers and Yankees have met 10 times previously in the fall classic but they got here this year only after winning divisional playoffs forced by a players' strike over free agent compensation that gouged 59 days from the season.

The season's miseries were all but forgotten by gametime.

With one out in the first, Jerry Mumphrey singled to right field off Dodgers left-hander Jerry Reuss. Reuss struck out the dangerous Dave Winfield on three pitches, and there were two outs.

Lou Piniella, who replaced the injured Reggie Jackson in right field, strode to the plate accompanied by deep-throated fans' cheers of "Louuuu." Piniella hit Reuss' first pitch down the right field line and Mumphrey was forced to hold at third when a fan reached from the stands and touched the ball.

Booters mix languages to communicate success

Communication plays a vital role in the world of sports, especially team sports. One must be able to give and receive feedback properly so that a team will function at a top notch level.

Football teams communicate with codes in huddles and at the line of scrimmage. Basketball players hold up fingers to let their teammates know what to do. Catchers flash signals to their pitchers.

And while most team sports abide by this law of sports nature, one sport at Eastern defies the basic principle of clean, crisp communication—the game of soccer.

No other program has the variety of nationalities and languages that exists within Eastern's soccer squad.

When Eastern hosts a match, our Lakeside Field sounds like a congregation of the United Nations.

Honestly, have you ever went to a soccer match and done nothing but listen to what our players say to each other while they kick the ball back and forth?

I never realized there were so many ways to say

"kick it over here" or "I'm open." It astonishes me that with the seven different nationalities existing on the Eastern squad, they all seem to understand each other when they yell whatever mumble-jumble it is when they talk. The guys ought to major in foreign language studies.

I suppose Schellas Hyndman's prerequisite for playing at Eastern is the ability to speak six different languages, and take it from me, that's no easy task. I had a difficult enough time learning basic Spanish in high school. I had two years of it and I still couldn't tell you how to say "boot the ball over here". I guess that's why I don't play soccer.

Who knows, it may be English that they use out there, but with the accents they have it's like a whole new language.

Regardless what it is, though, it works. Their record proves it and I am not one to question a system of communicating that is successful, even if it does defy the laws of sports nature.
